

Liability for Content

Xprimia WebSite

All rights reserved. Any use of the data made available on the website, in particular the placement of a hyperlink or the framing on or even of parts of this website requires the prior written consent of xprimia. All content on the site and its parts has been created and monitored with the utmost care. Any liability for links to other websites and the accuracy and timeliness of the information contained therein, as well as for data loss or other technical impairments that may arise when viewing or downloading data from this website, is excluded. The company bears no liability for the accuracy, completeness and relevance of the images, renderings and content.